this isn't a case of hopeless romance or heart break.

Michael Munday has a long history of being implicated in crime and fraud.

There is a good degree of evidence already available online backing this up (with evidence, names, and dates).

all you have to do is do a google search for 'michael munday fraud' and you'll see what comes up this is why i present documents from the police, screenshots of emails, names and dates. so can see it's not a lie - all verifiable facts. i have no convictions so not sure how munday thinks i'm a criminal. you have a debt to me, i have a right to take measures to see that debt is paid. if you don't pay your electrical bill, they turn off the lights - is that extortion?

1) You don't have to be convicted to be a criminal. If you steal a loaf of bread from woolworths and never got caught your'e still a criminal.

2) The company went into administrati get over it stop crying, its only going to make things worse for you. If Telstra went bankrupt 3 months into a 12 month contract and your phone was switched off would you jump up and down like a child about that?

3) Why don't I just

... just fly down to Victoria
and we can settle
this like men, I have the
address,
instead of the childish
manner in which you have approached
it.

I am not commenting any further in relation to Louis
Marshall,
as this matter is being investigated
by police
and part of a defamation lawsuit in
supreme court.

Harrasment and stalking by social media. Feel so sorry for her, having her private life aired out on Twitter. If I was her, I'd change my name and move far far away. He is nuts.

"Nuts".. its people like you who don't understand mental illness that make the situation worse. Did you consider the effects this article and the responses may have had. Everyone makes mistakes, but we need to be understanding, especially when the person in question may be suffering from a serious mental illness. Comments like that are what puts mental illness patients and OTHERS at risk. The twitter account was shut down years ago, but now there is a permanent reminder for all involved, both him and her online whenever their names come up online. Is that fair, that a temporary situation is forever cached online for the world to see ?

i agree. i think munday does suffer from mental illness. it doesn't excuse the things he has done, especially taking money from people and not giving promised goods.

Making these kind of comments about someone who is suffering a mental illness is not only irresponsible but dangerous for the person, and OTHERS!

The link in the above comment can now be found here: <http://ontas.net/munday/>

Michael is a dishonest serial scammer who has shown no remorse for his many victims. He only cares about himself and who he can rip off next - read the above link. Run away and don't look back! Put a restraining order on him!!

He has numerous convictions for fraud and is still committing it with no remorse! She should run for the hills and never look back.

i've been scammed by munday, but i can't call him a criminal because he hasn't been convicted. police complaints have been made by 3 people. other people didn't bother because it's so time consuming to do. a couple of people have taken him to NCAT and won orders against him - he just doesn't pay, even when the sheriff shows up (note - i have the actually court and sheriff documents - are they lying too?)

If he really loves her, why can't he respect her decision not to be with him any more? It seems his needs and desires come before hers, regardless of what he says his intentions are.

i believe munday is suffering from mental illness (his words, not mine - so don't start jumping up and down again about defamation). you have debts to people, debts which NCAT say you owe. chop chop and pay them if you're trying to re-establish your reputation.

The Australian Securities and Investment Commission as well as the NSW Police are a little higher than NCAT. My words "May be" and was referring to 2015 not now.
